

New security contract with Arvato

March 2009

Advance Security has been awarded the contract to provide security services to Arvato, at their distribution centre in Milton Keynes.

Arvato is the services arm of Bertelsmann AG, the global media company, with a warehouse distribution operation that is state of the art.

The decision to tender for a new security provider was based on the desire to provide innovation, specialisation and enhance the welfare of security personnel.

Mark Lawrence, Security & Site Services Manager at Arvato, stated 'Advance demonstrated their ability to be innovative, proactive and practical. They run an efficient service whilst managing to keep a very human touch on their operation. Cost effectiveness is important but not at the expense of operations or personnel'.

Advance specialises in the provision of security to the supply chain industry and is delighted to add such a prestigious name to their list of clients.

Chris Fieldhouse, Managing Director of Advance, said 'Advance is gaining an excellent reputation in the distribution arena and we are delighted to have won the Arvato contract, particularly in light of some very strong competition'.

Advance provides security services to a number of supply chain customers including Tesco, Boots, Iceland, Matalan and Mothercare/Early Learning Centres.
